*There was a certain timelessness to my childhood,
an innocence which lent a special newness to each day.
I had the security of being young,
and needed no reason for laughing hysterically.
No one need remind me to savor each moment,
it was just me and the day.
Everything seemed possible, and yet the best is just beginning . . .*

STUDENTS

Student Body President

Highland is changing and we have all been caught in the middle.
To me Highland means people — We are Highland High.

We have only three years — three years to grow together, to make new friends, to learn how to learn and most important to make Highland the kind of place we want it to be.

The final responsibility for what you think of Highland is yours.
Let's live each day making a good time of everything we do, but remembering always that person in history class who maybe doesn't smile too often. Let's try to make his day a little brighter.

Highland is only Highland when people care. If we don't care who will?
Highland spirit is only pride in accomplishments and in the accomplishment of friends.

Jeff Whiteley

Yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow is but today's dream.

Let today embrace the past with remembrance,
and the future with longing.

Kahlil Gibran

Student Body Officers

Tod Cracroft
Vice President

Cray — always laughing
about something — the grin.
Out with the boys playing B-ball at the U or picking "the machine." Making music — love — with tennis balls — girl charmer — with squinting eyes and new contacts.
Toddy — with the Royal Flush.
Cracroft kept the humor high.
Football — Madrigals — In everything — sharing the good times — for that short time.

Judy Meads
Secretary

Meads — refreshingly individual.
A fascinating rhythm in her lankiness, frustrated energy . . . breaking loose in spirits.
Optimistic, always finding sunshine in the day,
Yet just slightly absent-minded in her excitement to live.
Out to do something "scathingly brilliant" —
Making an adventure of life, accepting the wildest dare.
Anxious to please; doing her best and more.
A sensitive side, continually willing to give, caring . . .
thinking with her heart.
Superstitious about frogs, doorknobs, and lights.
"Miss Goof" — sharing a smile with the world.

Richard Koplin
Second Vice President

Motivated, accomplished — athletic competence proved through participation in football — playing both linebacker and fullback — in wrestling, track and intramural sports, receiving honors and awards in all — Content within himself, he tries to project to others through his sincerity the same self-satisfaction. Rick represented Highland at Boys' State, sang with the Madrigals, charmed the girls and added "class" to the Highland spirit.

Carolee Zwick
Historian

Poised, well-rounded somehow always finding the right thing to say — "Leta," the tease with the constant smile. Never letting the pressure get her down. Trying to keep the world happy right along with her. Maturity, dependability sprinkled with an obsession for jellybeans and keen insight into the baffling sports world. Carolee — "the girl with all the clothes." At ease with people, at ease as a leader. Pep Club Officer, Girls' State Governor, S.B. Historian. Remembering little things, seeing everything is done . . . loving people, caring, a friend.

Student government — the workhorse of the studentbody. Whether confronted with cafeteria trays, sluffing, or accreditation, they tried to make a union between student views and administrative policies. Sometimes the gap was bridged — sometimes not. Under the leadership of Tim Tolman they learned to involve people — and they enjoyed it.

HAM and HAW

Highland Associated Men, their manhood challenged by the new woman concept, retained their cherished virtue of chauvinism. To exhibit physical prowess, they resorted to combat in the 1971-72 intramural sports. These games produced the legendary HAM sweat. Finally, they sprouted whiskers in the beard growing contest. This year was the year for the men to put women back in place — the year of the associated man.

The associated Highland Women strived to find the happy medium between Victorian views and the "Liberated Chick." The HAW fashion show and the senior tea stressed sisterhood and femininity. Intramural football and the Valentine's Dance showed their liberation. In 1972 they kept the tradition of asking out men. Whether alone, with the chicks, or the men, the Highland women were truly associated.

A mixed up year, "the little guy."
Suddenly becoming just one piece in a mosaic of people . . .
Putting up with cafeteria food since I didn't have my license yet, or maybe just because I didn't know better, genuine yellow slips, Snellen eye tests, actually doing some homework — Thinking back, it's funny how I could get lost in these halls
so familiar to me now.

Time
to be lived in,
laughed in,
loved.
A challenge for each of us to give our very best — to reach beyond ourselves.

Thinking back I remember that first feeling of insignificance among the masses of people; the eagerness to become a part of school —
the pride in finally belonging.
At first it was baffling;
the endless hallways and room numbers, unknown cheers and the school song.
As we groped among the multitude searching for ourselves, smiling at strangers for the first time,
sharing little moments, we opened up, and the newness gave way to friendship.

There's security in being a junior, freedom that comes from not being too deeply committed to the future.

I'm at ease in my time, comfortable among familiar faces.
The pattern of my life
is set for awhile
with the security of knowing there's still another year.
I hope I make the most of it . . .
while I'm in the middle.

There's so much more to life once you begin to accept people for what they are;
The kid with the contagious laugh sitting by me all year, and we never got past borrowing erasers.
I missed something there;
he was worth getting to know.

Mine are days to be young in.
New faces, new ways of being — to change to look as fresh as I feel inside.
So I am reaching,
hoping that in my attempts to touch others' lives — someone will be sensitive to my moods at a time when I'm just beginning to know myself.

A special kind of freedom,
Seniors.

Wardrobes of army navys, taking fourth lunch. .
being young for awhile.

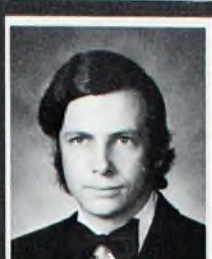

I'm gaining a better perspective on life,
Seeing outside of the "big game" Friday.
I feel a need to expand, wanting classes on how to live . . .
Somehow I've missed that amid research papers and doing the questions
at the end of the chapter.

The summer left
taking with it forever
my last frolicking, carefree days of vacations;
dripping popsicles
late night hours in the neighborhood;
— the meaning in my childhood—parts of me only remembered now

When I sing the school song for the last time,
walk away from forsaken classrooms and abandoned halls
when my last times here are followed by nothing and I've become only a memory of the past I hope something will be waiting . . .
a new kind of freedom to expand myself

Taking my time
 just trying to be happy Being serious, and yet having a good time messing around — that's what makes me happy Maybe even caring a little about someone
 And maybe being lucky enough to have someone care about me.
 Everything in stride—crying about those lost times and laughing with today and tomorrow.
 I hope I'm learning how to live.
 I guess that's what will make it.

It was a transitional time of becoming
what my life had destined me to be,
of giving — loving — living —

moments in their fullness;

In that time I learned
how to care about people, how they too

were struggling with hopes and dreams in a world where it's easier to conform;

By loving these people I looked and saw mirrored in their faces a reflection of what I was becoming —

without even knowing, they showed me my portion of reality,
an identity

life is made of small comings and goings . . .

for everything we gain in life there's something we leave behind...
